CHARLES T. BARNEY, FORMER KNICKERBOCKER TRUST COMPANY PRESIDENT, COMMITS SUICIDE

IN COURT AS MURDER OF BROWN IS TOLD

Tearfully Follows the Words of Prosecutor and Witnesses as They Brand Her Slayer of ex-Senator in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—With tears streaming down her face and completely unnerved, Mrs. Annie M. Bradley listened with something akin to horror as Assistant District-Attorney Turner, in opening ther trial to-day, told the jury how she had shot and killed ex-Senator Arthur Brown in the Råleigh Hotel here last December.

. \ She followed the prosecutor's narration closely, now, weeping silently and again almost hysterically, while at other times her tears stopped altogether as she weighed some exceptional statement against her. Once when Mr. Turner said that in reply to a question from the hotel clerk it the Raleigh Mrs. Bradley had said she was Brown's wife, Mrs. Bradley looked up suddenly as if to challenge the statement.

As the witnesses were called one after another and added their share to the story of the murder she was completely unnerved and almost collapsed when the pistol she used in the killing was shown in
